

Military History Society of Ireland

in conjunction with

Irish Military Archives and the National Museum of Ireland

will host a two-day Conference

‘From Sackville Street to Salonika and the Somme’ Irishmen and Women at war in 1916.

On Friday and Saturday, 12th / 13th February 2016.

In National Museum of Ireland Collins Barracks, Dublin.

Speakers will include Prof Keith Jeffery, Prof Charles Townshend, Nicholas Perry, Stephen Sandford, Martin Staunton, Emmanuel Destenay, Fionnuala Walsh, Mark Phelan, Michael Kennedy, Anthony Kinsella, Daithi O Corrain, Ann Matthews, Gerry White, Lar Joye, Michael Pegum, Neil Richardson.

Topics will include:

- The Irish Citizen Army
- The Redmondite National Volunteers
- The Irish Volunteers 1913-1916
- The Battle for Mount Street
- Responding to the Rising – The 3rd Royal Irish Regiment and the 3rd Royal Irish Rifles
- The Battle of Ashbourne
- Irish Regiments and Divisions in the British Army in 1916
- The impact of the Easter Rising on the moral of Irish troops – a re-evaluation
- Women and that Irish Home Front 1916
- Aspects of the Irish Home Front.
- The Easter Rising and the war at sea in Ireland
- The Royal Navy and the 1916 Rising.
- Sources for 1916 – The Military Pensions files
- The 1916 Collection in the National Museum

Full details, including an application form, will be published in January 2016.

Non-Members of the Society are welcome to attend.